Plans for this week: May 19 – May 23

1. Dayton Dayton Dayton – I'll be spending most of this week sorting through what was learned and who was met at Dayton. The trip was a resounding success at all levels. My goal for the week is to allow everyone involved in the project to take full advantage of what happened over the weekend and carry the discussion forward into the months to come.
2. Preliminary Satellite Symposium presentation release for review. The symposium is in late October in Atlanta. I'd like to use the Symposium as a goal in order to organize our efforts for the summer and fall.
3. SuperPortable User Interface Design Document release for review.
